Wine Australia Regulations 2018

Wine Australia is a statutory authority of the Australian Government established under the provisions of the Wine Australia Act 2013 (the Act). The Act and the Wine Australia Regulations 2018 define the objects of the Act and the functions of the Authority.

The above Regulations provide that the export of a defined grape product from Australia is prohibited unless certain prescribed criteria are met. The conditions state:

- The exporter must be licensed;
- When requested, the licensee must provide samples for the purpose of determining the soundness and merchantability of the grape product.

It is a condition of export that:

- The product must comply with Australian Food Standards Code in respect to both labelling and analytical requirements; and
- The product must comply with the Wine Australia Regulations 2018 in respect to the blending requirements for any vintage, varietal, or geographical indication claimed on the label.
- If an "organic" claim is made, the product satisfies requirements of Australia's export control orders regarding such claims.

This is to certify that free sale of the wine listed above is permitted in Australia (subject to State Licensing Laws) and that the wines have been granted an export permit from Wine Australia on the basis that the above criteria have been met. The wine is typical and traditional, meets all quality standards, is in accordance with the national regulations and is suitable for domestic consumption and for export. The wine is within the Australian limits of 1 g/l sodium chloride.

Wine Australia Regulations 2018

Wine Australia is a statutory authority of the Australian Government established under the provisions of the Wine Australia Act 2013 (the Act). The Act and the Wine Australia Regulations 2018 define the objects of the Act and the functions of the Authority.

The above Regulations provide that the export of a defined grape product from Australia is prohibited unless certain prescribed criteria are met. The conditions state:

- When requested, the licensee must provide samples for the purpose of determining the soundness and merchantability of the grape product.

It is a condition of export that:

- The product must comply with the Wine Australia Regulations 2018 in respect to the blending requirements for any vintage, varietal, or geographical indication claimed on the label.
- If an "organic" claim is made, the product satisfies requirements of Australia's export control orders regarding such claims.

This is to certify that free sale of the wine listed above is permitted in Australia (subject to State Licensing Laws) and that the wines have been granted an export permit from Wine Australia on the basis that the above criteria have been met. The wine is typical and traditional, meets all quality standards, is in accordance with the national regulations and is suitable for domestic consumption and for export. The wine is within the Australian limits of 1 g/l sodium chloride.

On the basis of the declaration by the exporter that the wines have been made in conformance with the Australian Food Standards Code, and the wines comply with that Code, the wines are intended for direct human consumption

The above wines contain more than 14% alcohol v/v at 20°C. This is entirely consistent with the style of wine produced from the region. Wines from these regions are typically, although not invariably, over 14% in alcohol content since ripe fruit is consistently achieved in most years.

- The exporter must be licensed;
- When requested, the licensee must provide samples for the purpose of determining the soundness and merchantability of the grape product.

It is a condition of export that:

- The product must comply with the Australian Food Standards Code in respect to both labelling and analytical requirements; and
- The product must comply with the Wine Australia Regulations 2018 in respect to the blending requirements for any vintage, varietal, or geographical indication claimed on the label.
- If an "organic" claim is made, the product satisfies the requirements of Australia's export control orders regarding such claims.

At the time of lodgement of samples, the exporter is required to provide a statutory declaration to the effect that the wine meets the requirements of Australian food law (including in relation to the 85% content declaration to specific varietal claims). Wines exported by this exporter under the authority of Wine Australia have met the legislated requirements.
